states, the couple were married by the Reverend D. F. Newton of No. 2468 South Eighteenth street, in the Church of the Good Shepherd at No. 2828 Salena street. Mrs. Agles No. 1 said to The Republic

the morning of July 30, ostensibly for Milwaukee, and that she has not seen him since. To prove that she is the legal wife of Ottis Agles she has a marriage certificate signed by James McCaffery, who was Justice of the Peace in the Sixth St. Louis District in 1890.

The certificate states that Ottle Agles of Edwardsville, Ill., and Miss Caroline E. Hobe of Marine, Ill., were married by Justice McAaffery October 1, 1896. This cer-tificate she took with her to the Four Courts yesterday, but because she did not have the return of the license for wedding No. 2 to prove that a second marriage had actually taken place the warrant was refused. Mrs. Agles No. 1 expects to have complete evidence when she applies for a warrant ngain to-day.

THE TWO WIVES MEET.

"When Mr. Agles left home on the morning of July 20," said Mrs. Agles No. 1, last night, "he told me that he was going to travel for some Milwaukee firm and that he would be back in four months, if he liked the work. Before leaving, he kissed me and our little boy, Elmer, good-by. The night before he left be nursed Elmer. who was sick with a fever.

"The Monday after he left the mail carrier called me downstairs and said he had a letter for Mrs. Agles, but he would not give it to me, for it was not addressed to No. 2515 North Broadway. He told me that there was another Mrs. Agles in town. "During the week friends showed me newspaper clippings which contained the notice of the issuance of the marriage license. Finally I decided to apply for a warrant. I went to the home of Gussle Curry, the maiden name of Mrs. Agles No. 2, this afternoon, and found her to be a reputable woman, entirely innocent of any Since his marriage, Mr. Agles has been living with wife No. 2 and her brother at

No. 4555 South Broadway, and has continued his work at a hardware establishment at the corner of Second and Care streets Shortly before he returned home from work last night Mrs. Agles No. 1 was there with her child. Soon after she left Agles came

"I thought you told me you weren't married," said Mrs. Agles No. 2 "Your wife and child were here this afternoon." "Just let me explain," sald Agles.

"Explain nothing," said Mrs. Agles No. 2, indignantly. "You get out of here."

Agles went. Where he spent the night his wo wives do not know. "Agles has been going with my sister three years," said William Curry, a brother of wife No. 2, to The Republic last night, "I believed that he was all right. Six months ago I learned that he would marry Gussie. It was at my suggestion that the marriage took place in a church. Agles wanted to buy my furniture, but I told him must have cash.

"He first met my sister about eight year ago, but he has been going with her since he met her at a dance at Bohemian Hall at the corner of Ninth and Allen streets, three years ago. As soon as I heard that Mrs. Caroline Agles claimed to be his wife, I came to her house to see if she could prove her claim, Since I have seen the marriage certificate I am satisfied that Mrs. Caroline Agles is the legal wife."

ONCE SENT HIM AWAY.

Mrs. Agles, No. 1, said she has known for some time that her husband went with another woman, but she did not know who she was. Once she sent him away from home, but after three days, she says, he came back. She says that roomers in her house knew more about her husband's ac tions than she did, but that they did not tell her all they knew, for they did not want to make trouble in the family.

Twice, so she says, she found a picture of a woman in Agles's clothing, and when she saw Mrs. Agles, No. 2, she recognized her by the photograph. When Agles left home No. 1, he took with him but little personal property, leaving some of his clothing behind. He also got $2 from his wife before deserting her, so she claims. A marriage license costs $1.

Agles is 35 years old, weighs about 175 pounds, is about 5 feet 9 facines high, has dark hair, a dark mustache and dark eyes. Mrs. Agles No. 2 is 30 years old.

Agles has one child, Elmer, by wife No. 1. The boy is 7 years old. Two children have been buried in Lebanon, Ill., where the parents of the alleged bigamist live. Agles gave wife 1 money every week

At the next meeting, however, friends of the bill procured a larger attendance and moved to reconsider, and passed the bill. It then went to the House, where Charles Vittheeft of the Second Ward won his spurs as a speaker and was dubbed "Old 76" for his opposition to bills calling for added expenditures of morey.

His opposition was of no avail, however, as the House passed the ordinance and yes, terday returned it to the Council, where it received its final reading and was signed by President Hornsby.

which he opposed as President of the Council shall become acting Mayor with the Council shall become Acting Mayor when that official is for any reason unable to perform his duties.

The law states that a bill shall go to the Mayor for his approval of disapproval as soon as it has passed both branches of the Municipal Assembly, and the Mayor shall within ten days after he receives it return it to the house in which it originated with his signature or objections.

However, should the Mayor fall to return the bill to the Assembly within ten days after he has received it. It shall become a law as if approved by him. Therefore there are two dispositions which Acting Mayor Hornsby may make of the bill.

He can allow the ordinance to go into effect without affixing his signature, and in that way his action will be consistent with the stand he took when the Council had the bill up for consideration.

On the other hand, he may veto the bill and thus add his intal disapproval of the measure and compel the Assembly to pass it over his veto by a two-thirds vote of the strength of each house.
